NO. 39. NEW YORK HERALD, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1855.

cering of the public funds should be arrested.

The Senate to day were mostly ensaged on the Lem, non reselutions. Mr. Brooks and Mr. Dickinson were 'he psincipal speakers. The hacknied subjects of anti, shavery, pre-slavery, Mason and Dixon's line formed 'he principal topics. Very little else was accomplished. This body has werked off all the general order, with the exception of a very few bills. The House having spent the last two days in discussing other matters, shach of its business is waiting to be brought into the Senate.

In the House this morning two or three gontlemen more spoke upon questions of privilege, denying that they had valuated their pedages in working for Senator.

Mr. Leigh entered somewhat into the interior of Shakspense, comparing Shylock to-the Know Nothings. Several pears, comparing Shylock to the Know Nothings. Several of the members pretended that they could not understand the propriety of the application.

After this informal precessing ended, the House, as it was in order, went in committee on the famous Prohibi-ery law. It seemed evident from the start that there was not much disposition to enter into a discussion of the bill. A motion was immediately carried to rise and report progress. Mr. Coleman, then, to test the strength, moved to lay the bill on the table for an indefinite period. Lost—34 to 69. Mr. O'Keefe then moved to pertone the subject indefinitely. The Speaker decided that if the metion was carried it would be fatal to the bill for the remainder of the session. The motion was lest—29 to 74. A member moved that the final question has taken on the 22d inst. which was strongly objected be taken on the 22d inst., which was strongly objecte Mr. McI aughlin, who remarked that he was opposed

Mr. Lamport was strongly opposed to placing the bill in the hands of the select committee, because there are members on it in whom he reposed no confidence. (Members staring about as if wondering who was members on it in whom he reposed no confidence. (Hembers staring about as if wondering who was meant.)

Mr. O'Keefe was opposed to the reference; be had no confidence in men who have violated their obligations in other reapects; to be honorable in this matter would be against their constitutions. He had no faith in the assurances they profer that they will not spring the previous question in the House. Every unfair means will be reserved to in order to force the bill through. There are only three sections that have at all been considered, and by allowing a select committee to report the bill as desired by its friends, it will cut off all discussion, all amendments to all the other twenty-three sections. It is a bill of auch importance that only three sections have been partially considered, and he desired to have full eppertunity to discuss the provisions of every remaining one. It is a bill of abominations, and posterity will heap execrations upon the heads of its authors. It was hatched out of the brains of fanatical monsiers, who will be sunk so deep in degradation that the trump of Gabriel, though blown with the vigor of an areh angel, can never arouse them to resurrection.

Several other speakers took the floor, a majority in favor of keeping the bill in committee, where free discussion could be had. Mr. Patty remarked that in his belief the bill would never reach the executive chamber. He hoped that in the further discussion of it the subjects of eaths and obligations would not be introduced, as he was not desirous to see members treated if that manner. The friends of the prohibitory law have been sold. Mr. Stebins, the chairman who reported the bill, was fer a select committee. It is the rame as the one passed hat year, and members on this floor, and people in the State, will understand its provisions. He wanted to hake it out of the Committee of the Whole, for the reason that a large number of its friends would necessarily be absent next week, and the had no desire to leave it in the hands of the securi

Fires in New York.

THE FIRE IN NINTH AVENUE.—We noticed briefly yesterday, the fire which took place at near 12 o clock on Wednesday night, during the storm, in the Ninth aven'e. The fire, it seems, commenced in a feed store, buned and occupied by Ido, Seaman & Co. 436 Ninth avenue. This frame building was burnt down; the flames then spread from this building to an adjoining hames then apread from this during to an adjoining house, owned by Mr. McGown, and occupied by D. Connelly as a liquor store. This was also totally de-garged. The houses 438 and 440, adjoining, were slight-fy damaged. The loss is estimated at about $2,500, the most part of which is covered by insurance.
